Lincoln Investment Celebrates Teacher Appreciation Week, May 5-9 and National Teacher Day, May 6

Fort Washington, PA – May 6, 2025 – As we celebrate Teacher Appreciation Week, May 5-9 and National Teacher Day, May 6, Lincoln Investment expresses its appreciation to our nation’s educators who shape the future of our communities. Teachers dedicate their lives to the success and well-being of others, and we are honored to work with many educators who trust us to guide their financial futures.

At Lincoln, we understand the unique challenges and opportunities teachers face when planning for retirement. Whether it's navigating pension options, social security or preparing for life after the classroom, our team is committed to offering personalized financial strategies designed to secure a bright future for educators.

As the premier provider of public education and governmental retirement plans, Lincoln has helped employees of schools, universities and other non-profit organizations prepare for their retirement for over 56 years. Investors have access to a customized financial strategy reflecting their goals and a wide selection of quality investment options including mutual funds, exchange-traded funds (ETFs)*, fixed and variable annuities, 403(b)/457(b) accounts, IRAs, college savings plans and access to insurance products offered through approximately 1,000 financial professionals.

Lincoln provides resources including retirement planning content, webinars, presentations, informative videos and much more for our financial professionals to share with teachers to help them prepare for retirement.

Lincoln is also committed to supporting educators beyond the office. We proudly sponsor local school programs and events that celebrate the hard work and dedication of our teachers.
